

Why be a District Supervisor?

What Central Washington District Supervisors Say...

*The real purpose of CD's is a very noble purpose...
The CD's have a short, medium, and long term perspective...*

Kurt Braunwart

Othello Conservation District

I feel the local people know best [how] to take care of the lands within their districts.

Lee Hemmer

Foster Creek Conservation District

I like to see landowners take an active part in conserving the resources they are stewards of...

Sally Amery

Central Klickitat Conservation District

... it is imperative that somewhere local landowners have an agency that will work for their interests. I think the CD's can provide that service...

Jim Hill

Central Klickitat Conservation District

Living and farming in the [Columbia] Basin has allowed me to live a lifestyle that I cannot imagine any other way. I want to give a little back to the area so that others will be able to have the same opportunities that I have had.

Dale Wentworth

Upper Grant Conservation District

Working with landowners in a cooperative fashion is very rewarding and successful.

David Stalheim

Chelan Conservation District

It gives me greater access to people and ideas outside my small town that can make a difference in the viability and profitability of my farm operation.

Ron Juris

Eastern Klickitat Conservation District

Ten Minute Supervisor #2

Questionnaire

Now that you have read the inspiring words of your fellow district supervisors from the central part of the state, we want to encourage you to share with us what inspired you to become an elected or appointed governmental official of your local conservation district?

So what is it that moves you to give of your time and energy, and keeps you coming back month after month to assist in your district's mission?

Thanks for sharing – we may incorporate your messages into information for this training series as well as for WACD informational posters at the convention. Feel free to use this information in helping to promote your own districts.
